Follow Leading Off everywhere over the Twitter: twitter.com/zinsemyt There has been considerable argue this week on if the Minnesota Vikings could have, or should have, waited to find a less formidable opponent than the Super Bowl champions as neophyte quarterback Christian Ponder's 1st NFL begin My take: Ponder was the No. 12 overall elect of the blueprint plus a player the Vikings are addition on to guide them as a decade or longer. There should be no concern almost protecting him from fierce opponents, swiftly alternatively ever. If they were redoubtable to play Ponder against the archrival Green Bay Packers, next I would be concerned as either his plus their hereafter With that said, it's just to point out namely only five newcomer quarterbacks among NFL history have made their first start against the vindicating NFL champion. As the chart below shows, the Arizona Cardinals' Max Hall was the only such beginner to win namely begin It's interesting to note that former Vikings quarterback Tommy Kramer is aboard the account as well. Kramer plus Ponder are two of only three quarterbacks the Vikings have ever drafted surrounded the 1st round (Daunte Culpepper within 1999 was the other.) That two of them will have made their first begin against the vindicating champions is interesting to me, if it were not for to anyone else.
